

Jungle Love (2016)

By Walt Wright

Jungle love is a term referring to a forbidden passion and was used as the title for a movie about a mix race couple falling in love. Once seen as dirty unacceptable and dark romance is now commonly accepted. In this 6x6 acrylic painting I have attempted to bring out a gritty yet colorful interpretation of passion. Note the array of colors that fill the background of moss and flowers. Now let your eyes fall on the playful pattern of hearts that make up the lizards design. Bold, bright and dazzling to the eyes this tropical scene seems anything but unforbidden.

This painting was donated to The Arts Depot of Abingdon, Virginia. Its sale helps to keep the lights on and art alive in Abingdon. Thank you for supporting the arts!
