

BB-8, StarWars (2016)

By Walt Wright

Unlike R2D2 this Star Wars robot moves around by rolling. The head is apparently held to the body by magnets and moves about on the body independent of its directional movement. It has many hidden storage ports and special features that help save the day. This 6x6 acrylic painting will bring a smile to the young and young at heart as it brings back memories of a film franchise that has truly captured the heart of the world.

This painting was donated to The Arts Depot of Abingdon, Virginia. Its sale helps to keep the lights on and art alive in Abingdon. Thank you for supporting the arts!
